A.—(a) 34,402 acres.

(b) Intensive propaganda was done by organizing meetings in all the villages. The chemical and mechanical methods for adopting control measures were explained to ryots. Printed pamphlets were also supplied. Early control measures like setting up of light traps and bonfire to catch the moths, collecting egg masses and destroying them and dusting and spraying with chemicals were advocated. In all the village leaders' camps, the control measures were discussed in detail and explained to the ryots. Adequate quantities of pesticides were stocked in all the depots. All the hand operated and power sprayers and dusters available in the department and the appliances owned by the ryots were put in to operation and all possible efforts were undertaken to combat the red hairy caterpillar pest in Madurai district.

(c) The Agricultural department supplied the pesticides at subsidized rate to the ryots. The Government are also examining the question of granting dry remission in respect of groundnut crops affected by pest where the yield is three annas and below and half dry remission where the yield comes up to eight annas.
